

IN THE SPECIFICATION

Please amend the paragraph beginning on page 2, line 9, as follows:

In some cases, information may be taken and stored in the disk cache without immediately updating the information in the disk drive. In a write back policy, information may be periodically written back from the disk cache drive to the disk storage. Such write backs may occur when the system is idle and such write backs would otherwise not adversely affect performance and during power cycles.